Dear Billy:

I received today from you the papers in the matter of the Estates of James C. Stilwell and Harry A. Lyons. The Stilwell Estate I knew nothing about, and in the Lyons Estate I had entirely forgotten that a few years ago I looked up some information for you. The matter of the gift to Christ Church remained in abeyance until the death of some life tenants and an adjudication of the trustee's account. When the account was filed, and before final adjudication, the money was paid over to Beaumont Whitney, the Accounting Warden, and when notice of the adjudication was sent to the Church, Doctor Kloman sent it to me and I wrote to New York Counsel stating that the matter had been satisfactorily closed.

If through any inadvertence I have injected myself into the matter, no disrespect was intended.

Trusting that you will understand, and with kind regards, I am

Very sincerely yours,

HRR/b
